GAN

Today we made a quick study of Passover, Mt. Sinai and Shavuot. I hope the materials the children brought home will help you continue teaching your child more about these holidays. We also finished our journals and received our graduation certificates. Everyone was a wonderful student and I thank you so much for sharing them and allowing me to be a part of their Jewish journey.

School is not quite over! I need all of the kindergarten class to attend the program on April 28th. We will be singing a few of the songs we have learned and need everyone's voice. Together, your children will put on a strong performance and feel good about their work Also, it should be a fun day!

Here's what we tried to study this week:

- WHAT: Passover, Shavuot
- VALUE: freedom
- WHY: freedom is precious and not easy to find

Ask me:

- to tell you the Passover story
- to tell you about the items on the seder plate
- about Mt. Sinai
- about the travels through the desert

We shared the following books:

The Ten Commandments For Jewish Children – Nerlove

Joyous Haggadah - Richard and Liora Codor

Company's Coming - Holub

ALEF

We had it a busy day today!

Today we reviewed the Hebrew letter, vet, and reviewed Hebrew progress. Over the summer, continuing to review the flashcards periodically will be helpful, so that your child is ready to move forward with Hebrew when LBSY resumes.

This week, we learned more about Passover, both the story of our Exodus from Egypt and the traditions of the holiday. We made Afikomen covers/pouches and did yoga poses for the 10 plagues. Photos will be posted on LBSY's Facebook page. As always, if you have any questions or concerns, please contact me at 654-0861 or Nancy.Renick@gmail.com.

Today was our last regular classroom day. We will return April 28 for a special family LBSY finale. It has been a pleasure for Willa, Clara, Jason and myself to teach your children, and we all hope that your families have a wonderful Passover and a terrific summer.

BET

Today we did a final Hebrew review and a little test to see where we ended the year. Everyone worked hard to remember our letters and vowels after break.

We then learned about Passover, reviewing the holiday itself and the four questions so they'll be ready for your Passover Seder.

We also taught each other some awesome Torah stories after I had a request to know more about the Torah portions. Each group taught a story: Jacob and the Angel, Sodom and Gamorrah, and Naomi and Ruth. They made posters, wrote skits, and taught their friends.

Finally, as I'm sure you saw, we made our own candy seder plates. They had no directions, and we're incredibly creative. As this was the last classroom day, I just want to say it was a privilege being their teacher this year. I hope you all have a good holiday and see you in two weeks at our Family program on April 28.

GIMMEL

This week we continued practicing the V'ahavta. We also spent some time learning Passover. We went over what is on the Seder plate and its significance. Then we talked about the different parts of the Seder.

As you know- we have one day left on April 28, hope to see everyone there! I wanted to say thank you very much for letting your child be in my class ♥

DALET

We talked about Passover and made charoset!
We'll be joining with other classes on Wednesday for Israel crafts and games! See you on April 28!

HEY

This week we looked at Passover and concentrated on the four questions and their meanings. We discussed the idea of going from slavery to freedom. We also enjoyed some chocolate matzah that the students got to decorate with various toppings. In Hebrew, we switched gear and concentrated on Aleinu. The students did an excellent job.

Thank you for sharing your amazing children with me this year. It has been a pleasure to teach and learn from them.

VAV/ZAYIN

What a busy Sunday! We spent the day immersed in Passover preparations! The students went thru each of the 15 steps, learning exactly what we do and more importantly, why! We reviewed some songs new and old, check out the song "These are a few of my Passover Things," it's an instant classic. We are preparing to lead the model seder with the seniors on Wednesday, and are looking forward to helping them enjoy their time. We also spent some time learning more about the "wicked son", and why he may not be so bad after all. Have a happy and joyous Passover, and it has been a real pleasure teaching your dear children. We hope to have an end of school gathering at our home, please check you emails for details to come.

CHET

Everyone was at a BBYO event! Hope you will join us on Sunday, April 28 for The Bible Players and our final tefillot together! Chet class students will be honored as you “step up” to Hebrew High School.
